

High appraisal

One day in November several years ago, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the newly-built Suncheon Catfish Farm.

He said that it was built in a neat and well-planned way and the Party's policy on building a modern catfish farm, whose production was put on a Juche-oriented, scientific, intensive and industrial footing, was successfully carried out.

His words moved the officials as he spoke highly of the farm though he himself had taken measures for building a catfish farm with a high production capacity in Suncheon ahead of other provinces, guiding its design and solving all the problems arising in its construction.

After looking around the farm, he said that as the equipment installed at the farm and building materials including outdoor color paints and pavement blocks in the farm had all been manufactured by factories in the province, the interior and exterior of the farm looked brighter.

He then continued: This catfish farm was born amidst the struggle for implementing the decisions of the Seventh Congress of the Workers' Party of Korea and a precious creation officials, Party members and other working people in South Phyongan Province built with their own strength and with an optimistic view in the future; my confidence has grown firmer as I heard that the people in the province had realized through the construction of this farm that they could do anything and enjoy a happy life when they displayed the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance.

His words denoted his trust in the local people that they should display the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance, the source of creation of miracles, without letup.