

A Splendid Chicken Farm

On January 7, 2024, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the newly-built Kwangchon Chicken Farm.

Looking round the farm, he spoke highly of the loyalty and patriotism of all the officials and other builders, who built the farm into a wonderful and standard one.

Having initiated the construction of the modern chicken farm, he had taken strong measures for the project, resolving the problems arising in its design, supply of building materials and funds and construction of a feed-supply farm and houses for its employees.

That day, he said:

The farm, a standard for development and excellent model for the present times, should take the lead in the efforts to develop the country's poultry farming and regional industry and improve the people's livelihood in the future. We should bring about a radical turn in the development of poultry farming by putting the country's poultry production bases on a modern footing with this farm as a model, and effect a substantial change in the people's life by generalizing its experience in construction and modernization on a nationwide scale and continuously expanding its successes.

Then he expressed satisfaction at the meat and eggs cascading down.

Officials were convinced that, thanks to the sincerity of the fatherly leader who regards it as his mission to achieve national prosperity and promote the people's wellbeing and devotes himself to this end, gigantic creations for the people would mushroom in different parts of the country.
